QUITTIE 1974-1975

Though O. Pass Bollinger retired last year after twenty-three years of service to the Biology Department, he has not removed himself from campus life. Rather, he has dedicated himself to making the Lebanon Valley campus more beautiful with an extensive landscaping project. Already his tireless efforts have seen massive replanting around the Administration Building, Chapel, and Keister and Hammond Halls. In addition, he is supervising the landscaping of the Blair Music Center.

The 1975 Quittie staff salutes Mr. Bollinger and takes pleasure in dedicating this yearbook to him. Through his devotion and the unselfish gift of his time, he has demonstrated the true meaning of campus citizenship.

All my life is mine no more,
The flying hours are gone;

By memory alone.

— Wilmot, Earl of Rochester.

The 1975 Homecoming Court

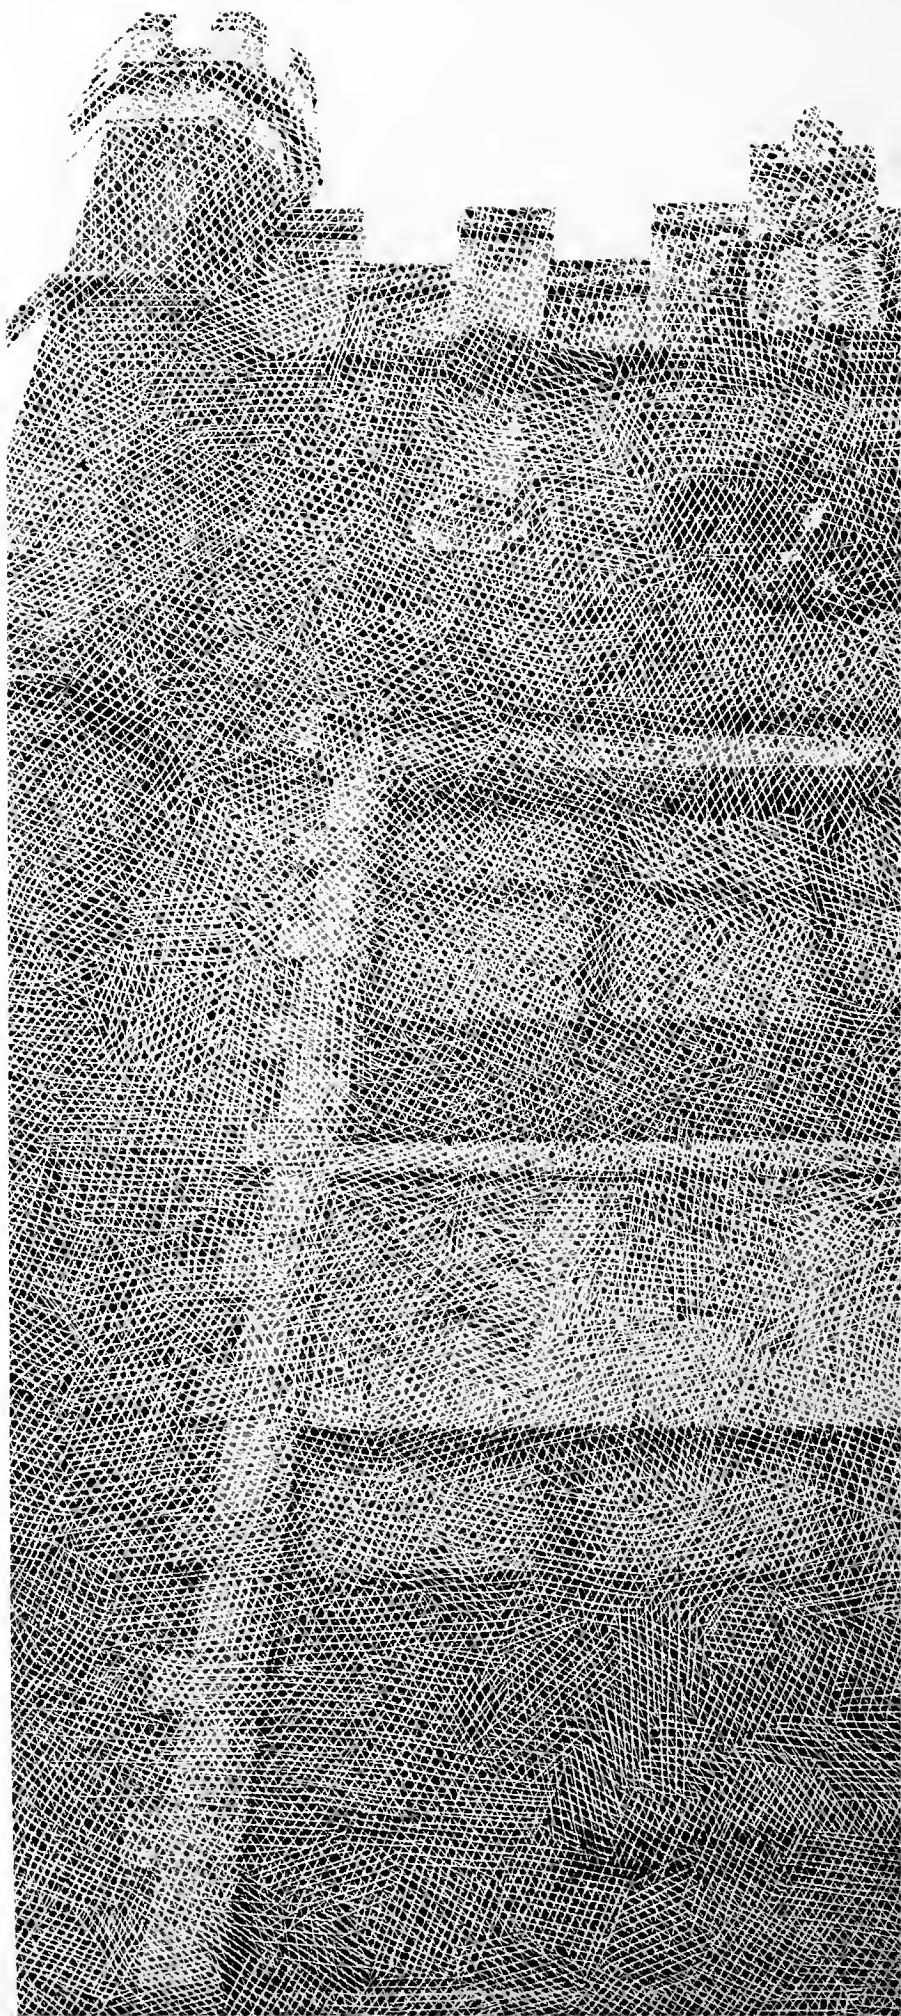

Kim, Gloria, Barb, Cindy, Jeannine, Vicki represent the freshman class

Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow Creeps in; this petty pace from day to day . . .

The faces change but the places remain, and the old Ad Building sits center-stage through days and months and years.

Memorable Moments . . .

Play it again, men!

Knight's House — fun city?

Warren meets a puzzling opponent, and Joel invents a fascinating after-dinner tale. "There was this banana, see, and . . ."

Want in? Just knock at the door and shell out four (grand, that is), and find what it's all about . . . "a mug of wine, a loafing man, and jocks."

If you want to go home tonight with your head up
instead of down,
America's Walter Smith
can help.

"America's Walter Smiths can help . . ." but can Lebanon Valley's?
Homecoming Court looks a little fishy . . . but the chapel balcony is a scene of momentary inspiration.

Aren't you glad you came to Lebanon Valley?
The ultimate in ideal women, courses so easy that you have time to type your letters to Mother, gourmet dining, and scenes of incredible, unspoiled natural beauty. Who can ask for more?

One memorable exhibit in the Silver Hall 200, and what on earth is going on in the game room? And two Lebanon Valley trademarks — umbrellas and Strohmman, the Sunshine Boy of Jazz.

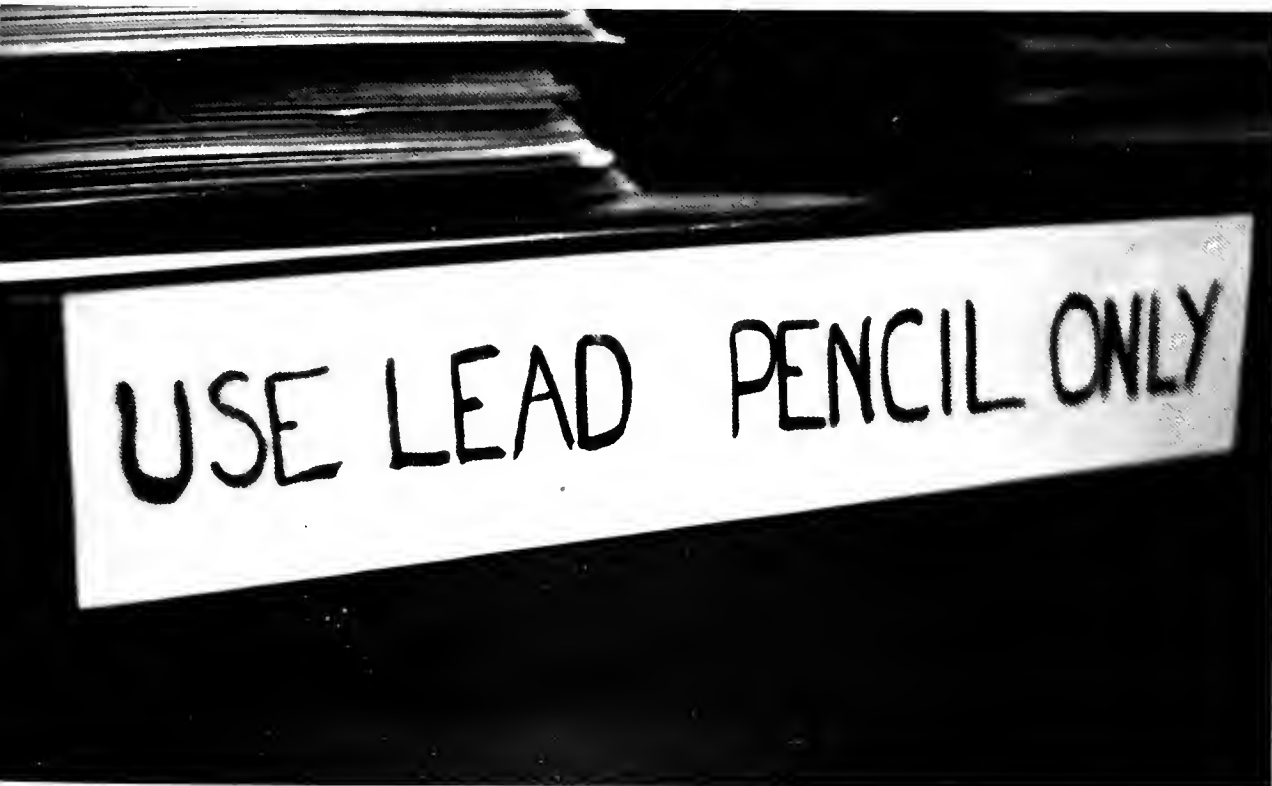

Well, here we go again.
Back to intramurals,
migraines, and the dread disease of registration — memophilia. Or is it memomania?

On Saturday, September 14, warm temperatures and sunny skies set the stage for the annual frosh-soph tug at the Quittie, sponsored by the White Hats. The upperclassmen, veterans of many muddy encounters, found themselves outnumbered three to one by a crowd of freshmen anxious to settle the score. After the usual exchanges of shouts, curses, incantations and dirty tricks, the frosh emerged victorious, but not before nearly everyone was baptized at least once in the less-than-sparkling waters of the rolling Quittapahilla.

Homecoming '74
"Bad Seed"

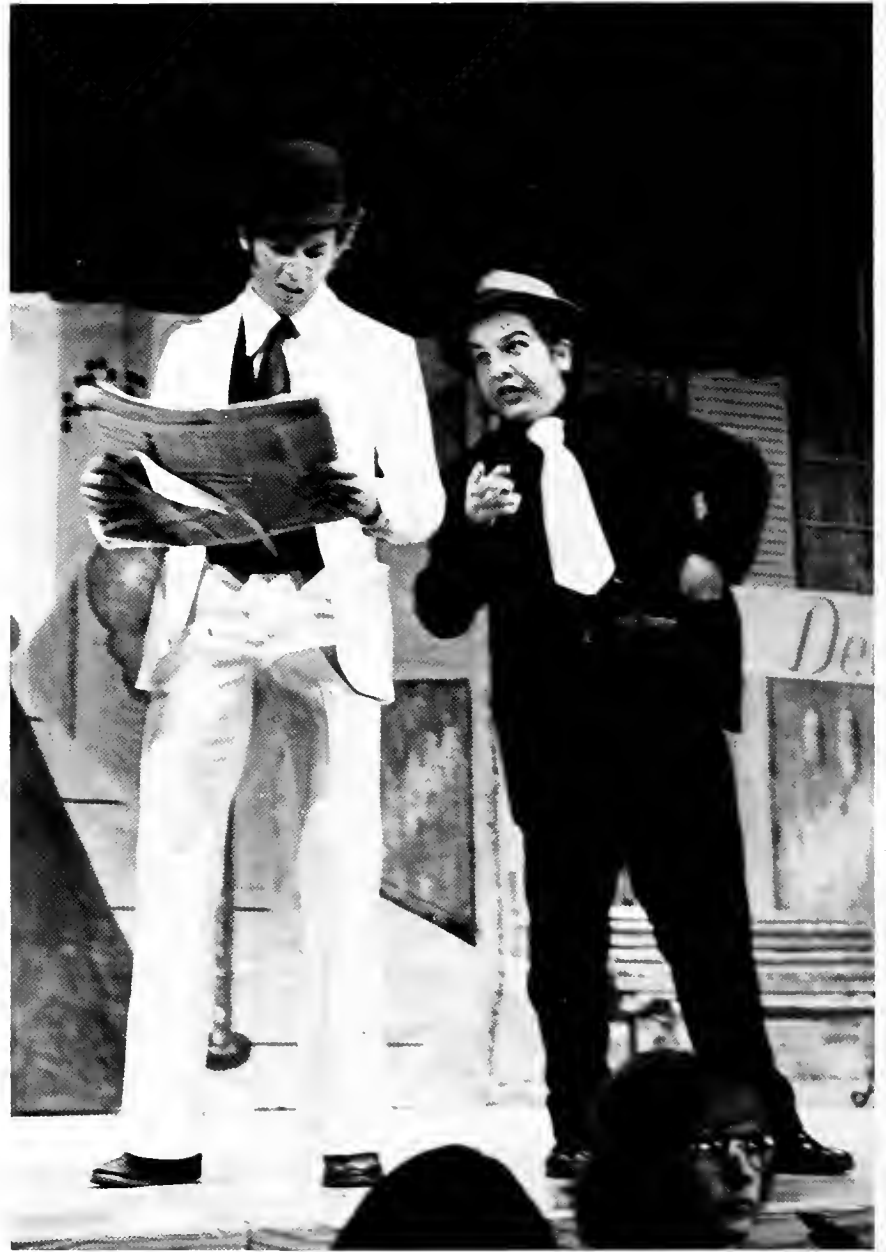

Homecoming Day . . . floats, girls, and powderpuff football. The faculty exchanged mortarboards for jockstraps but they still couldn't beat the girls, not even with the help of "Livid Leon . . ."

Winter

"Guys and Dolls," snow, Basketball, Wrestling, Christmas . . . It's not as if we had finals to study for!

Dedication of Blair Music Building

Spring

"NO NO Nanette" You cannot get spring fever yet! Arts Festival, plays, spring weekends, senioritis, FINALS and then the end.

Spring Arts Festival '75

All my past life is mine no more,
The flying hours are gone;
Like transitory dreams giv'n o're,
Whose images are kept in store
By memory alone.

Art

Richard A. Iskowitz — M.F.A. Assist. Prof.

The Art Department, though tucked away in an obscure corner, continued its efforts to enrich campus life. While teaching his regular course load, Mr. Iskowitz arranged the monthly art exhibit in the College Center, sponsored the film series, "Pioneers of Modern Painting," and brought an exhibition of original graphic art to the college on November 7. This exhibit featured major works by both early and modern masters. In addition, Mr. Iskowitz served as co-ordinator of the Spring Arts Festival.

Chemistry

David N. Bailey, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.
Richard C. Bell, M.Ed., Assist. Prof.
Karl L. Lockwood, Ph.D., Professor
Owen A. Moe, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.
Howard A. Neidig, Ph.D., Professor
James N. Spencer, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.

In the chemistry department, five students were engaged in departmental honors projects. Dr. Spencer, working under a grant from Cottrell College Sciences Grants of Research Corporation, researched Spectrophotometric Studies of Hydrogen Bonds. Also, the National Science Foundation helped the department purchase an on-line data acquisition system which uses a small computer to interact with experimental data. This System will be instituted into a junior-senior level laboratory course so that many students may benefit from it.

For LVC biology students with an interest in ecology a special class in this area was set up. Numerous field trips were taken by the class to study area lakes and streams. Many students were also involved in independent studies.

Economics

Professors Buffenmyer and O'Neill were added to the faculty, and Buffenmyer assumed the duties of department chairman. Two interns, Glenn Zearfoss and Gary Kipp, spent a semester working off-campus with industries, relating academic knowledge with practical experience. A field trip to the New York Stock Exchange was sponsored by the Department in April. New courses and plans for a possible fifth professor to be added to the staff hopefully will accommodate the growing department.

Education

Madelyn J. Albrecht, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.
Cloyd H. Ebersole, D.Ed., Professor
June E. Herr, M.Ed., Assoc. Prof.
Edgar L. Lawton, M.S., Assist. Prof.

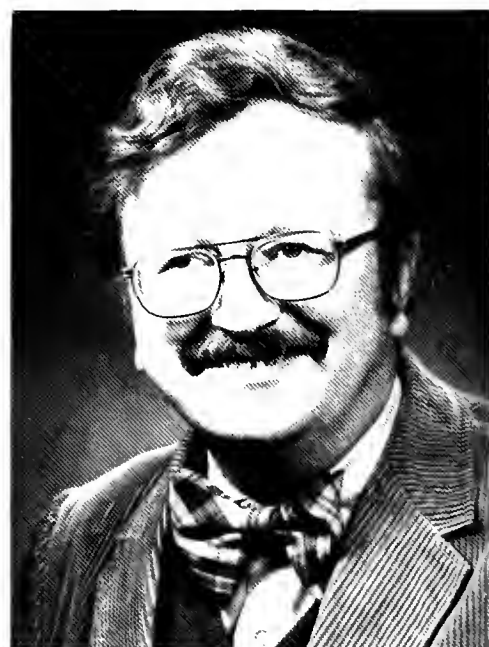

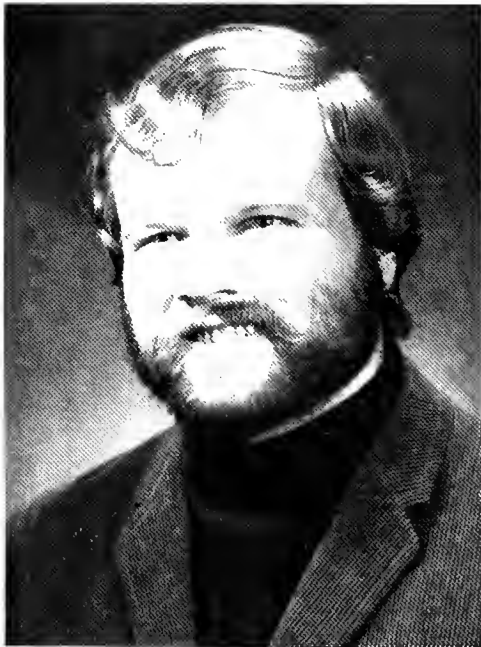

The department of Education stressed the importance of practical student experience in the classroom through programs of classroom aiding and reading tutoring. The Teacher Placement office also improved in efficiency during the 74-75 school year.

English

Richard N. Kirby, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.
Philip A. Billings, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.
Anna D. Faber, Ph.D., Professor
Arthur L. Ford, Ph.D., Professor
Agnes B. O'Donnell, M.A., Assoc. Prof.
George G. Struble, Ph.D., Professor Emeritus
Glenn H. Woods, M.Ed., Assist. Prof.
John P. Kearney, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.
Leon E. Markowicz, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.

Mr. Billings barthed his way to a Ph.D. during the summer of 1974. Mrs. O'Donnell took a leave to investigate the mysterious W. H. Auden and was replaced by that great English gentleman, Mr. Kirby. A new course was offered second semester: "Women in Literature" taught by Dr. Kirby and Dr. Ford. A series of meetings on various topics were held for majors. The ever-popular Christmas cookie orgy, hit by the high price of sugar, deteriorated to cheese and crackers.

Foreign Language

Charles T. Cooper, M.A., Assoc. Prof.
Hilda M. Damus, M.A., Assoc. Prof.
John W. Martin, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.
Kathleen McNearney, M.A., Assist. Prof.
Elizabeth Piel, Ph.D., Professor
Malin Saylor, Fil. Kand. Adj. Instr.

Dr. Piel retired at the end of the second semester after many years of faithful service. The chairmanship of the department went to Captain Cooper, who with the rest of the department strove to make the language requirement a meaningful experience for all students. In addition, the department continued to stress the benefits of study abroad, especially for language majors.

History and Political Science

Alex J. Fehr, Ph.D., Assoc. Prof.
Elizabeth Geffen, Ph.D., Professor
Richard A. Joyce, M.A., Assist. Prof.
John D. Norton, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.

First semester Dr. Geffen was on sabbatical, working on her research of the Diary of Joseph Sills, and other research for the upcoming bicentennial year. The Doctors Fehr and Norton continued to stress the importance of everyones knowledge of our own government (especially Watergate) and Mr. Joyce trilled Western Civ classes with his Peter the Great trivia.

Mathematics

Fay B. Burras, M.A., Assist. Prof.
Joerg W. P. Mayer, Ph.D., Professor
William M. Fleischman, Ph.D., Assoc.
Prof.
Bryon V. Hearsey, Ph.D., Assist. Prof.

The math department introduced a new course, Operations Research, dealing with mathematical organization of the arts. Dr. Fleischman gave a series of talks on the history of math, and also sponsored a series of film shorts as a pre-Arts Festival project. A mathematic competition for area high school students was held in February and March under the auspices of the Math Club.

Philosophy

John H. Heffner, A.M., Instructor
Warren K. Thompson, M.A., Assist. Prof.

The professors of this small department are not just inferring but rather insisting that the students in their classes should learn to THINK! Study in this area included the great minds of the past and the development of future minds.

Music

Frank E. Stachow, M.A., Assoc. Prof.
James M. Thurmond, Mus.D., Assoc. Prof.

After two years among the plaster cracks and the cobwebs of Kreider Hall, the Music Department moved into the Blair Music Center in October. Dedication was held in February with a weekend of special concerts and activities, including memorable performances by the Army Band. The Concert Choir ventured south to Maryland and Virginia on its annual spring tour. The department continued its contributions to campus life with special concerts and student and faculty recitals.

O. Kent Reed, Men's Coach
Louis Sorrentino, Men's Coach

Two years of physical education are still required at the Valley to graduate. In addition to the regular gym and health classes students may participate in intercollegiate and intramural sports. There always seems to be a crowd in the gym as students practice for sports and just generally keep in shape.

Physics

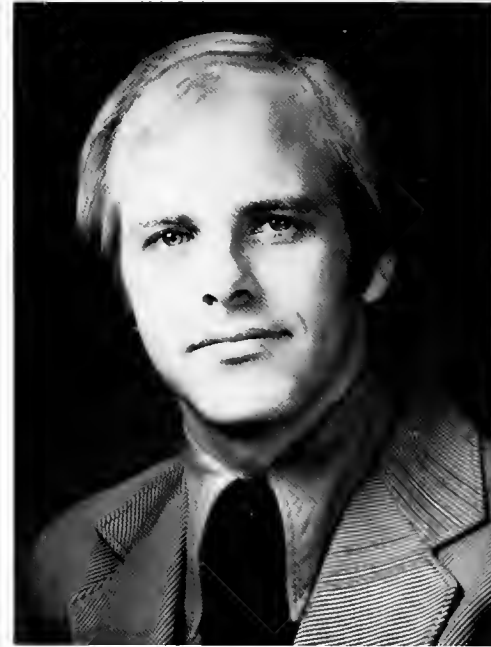

J. Robert O'Donnell, M.S., Assoc. Prof.
Jacob L. Rhodes, Ph.D., Professor
Samuel O. Grimm, Sci.D., Professor Emeritus
Phillip E. Thompson, B.S., Assist. Prof.

Mr. Phillip Thompson joined the physics faculty. An LVC graduate he is pursuing his doctorate at the University of Delaware. Aside from various department meetings and independent study projects, the department for the first time offered a course "The Physics of Music," a study of wave motion, resonance and sound, taught by Professor O'Donnell. Also in the offering is a new course called "Space Science." Under the guidance of Dr. Rhodes, this course will investigate topics in astronomy and the physics of space.

Psychology

Although there are no "note pads and couches" many psychology majors are gaining practical experience in the field and the lab. Numerous students engaged in Independent Study Projects and the department sponsored a special film class.

Dr. Cantrell went on a sabbatical leave second semester, and his teaching duties were assumed by Dr. Paul Stambach. Four students pursued Independent Studies; departmental parties, picnics, and meetings were held throughout the year. Field trips included a visit to Drew Seminary in New Jersey for a consultation on John Wesley. The Christian Ethics Class, under Dr. Wethington's guidance spent two days in April in Washington where the students attended seminars and met with congressmen.

Sociology

Elaine S. Berson, Ph.D., Assoc. Prof. Dr. Rush departed the LVC scene and was replaced by Dr. Oliver Lerch. The department sponsored a program "The State Correctional Institution: An Inside Look," at which two residents and the director of treatment of the Camp Hill facility provided insights into its operation. Also, the Fourth Annual Sociology Symposium for High School students was held in March. The department brought other programs to the campus on various topics.
